

Free The Palestinians From Oppression...

Documents such as this one, seized by Israel, show Palestinian government funds allocated to terrorists

The lack of law enforcement in the Palestinian territories allows armed gangs to intimidate and murder at will. Here a man is killed and hanged for being a "collaborator." It is not known if this was his true offense.

This is a child of a Hamas supporter. Public incitement, years of propaganda and Islamist movements have radicalized many Palestinians and their children.

An on-campus event at An-Najah University in Nablus fondly commemorates the Sbarro Pizzeria Massacre, where a Palestinian suicide bomber killed 15 Israelis (including 7 children) and wounded 130 more while they were eating.

Oppression From Corrupt Leaders

Money intended for state building misappropriated

For over a decade, the international community has donated billions in aid money to the Palestinian people. The World Bank reported that since 2000, the Palestinians received more foreign aid per capita than has ever been given in the history of foreign aid. Hundreds of millions of dollars of that money are unaccounted for. In the wake of staggering corruption, lawlessness and factional violence harms Palestinians who want to live normal lives.

Direct and tacit support of terrorism

Nobody is harmed by Palestinian terrorism more than ordinary Palestinians, yet the Palestinian Authority continues to finance and support terrorism. Hamas retains its genocidal charter that calls for destruction of Israel. The unwillingness of the Hamas government to reform its hard-line position has prompted foreign governments to curtail their aid to the Palestinians. Fatah, the so-called moderate party within the Palestinian Authority, has claimed responsibility for 40% of suicide bombings in Israel. Hamas, the hard-line and dominant player in Palestinian politics, perpetrated most of the remaining 60% of suicide attacks.

Oppression From Religious Extremism

Oppressive religious practices

A new era of religious oppression is sweeping the Palestinian territories. In some places, secular women are being forced to cover their heads in the Islamic tradition. Dozens of internet cafes, music stores, restaurants and even pharmacies have been bombed or burned down. Prostitutes have been murdered; their bodies dumped in public as a warning to others. Intimidation and violence against gays and Christians is not uncommon.

State sponsored extremist agenda

Hamas was founded in 1988 to destroy Israel and create an Islamic state in its place: "Israel will exist and will continue to exist until Islam will obliterate it, just as it obliterated others before it" –Hamas Founding Charter. Hamas, now the dominant political party in the Palestinian political system, continues to advocate violence in the name of Islam. Many government appointed religious leaders continue to preach Islamic victory through violence and glorify "martyrdom" (a common euphemism for suicide bombing).

Oppression From Child Abuse

Incitement to violence

From a young age, many Palestinian children are taught hate and violence against Jews and Israelis by government leaders, extremist religious leaders and even family members. A simple search on the internet will yield hundreds of images of Palestinian children dressed as suicide bombers, holding assault rifles in marches or otherwise emulating terrorists and suicide bombers. Such a pervasive culture of hatred can only lead to tragedy and suffering.

Hate in the educational system

It is no secret that the Palestinian educational system is full of curricula that promote intolerance and rejection of Israel. Palestinian schools take students to violent protests. Government run summer camps train children in guerilla tactics and the use of assault weapons. Other PA summer camps are named after suicide bombers. In 2003, a soccer tournament held at a Palestinian school under the auspices of the school principal and local director of education was named after the suicide bomber who committed the Passover Massacre that killed 30 Israelis (participating teams were named after other suicide bombers). Children's television programming on Palestinian TV often promotes and glorifies violence against Israelis. The Palestinian An-Najah University is known for producing violent terrorist cells and is the alma mater of several suicide bombers.
